

April 6, 2006

When Walmart's come to town they put local businesses out of business. If the FDIC allows WalMart to go into banking it will use the same underhanded tactics to destroy any and all local banking competition, just as it has destroyed all local retailing competition.

WalMart is too powerful already. Doesn't WalMart have enough of our money? We don't need any more Walmartization of America. Letting WalMart go into banking would be like the FCC letting Rupert Murdoch and Sumner Redstone merge and control all news media.

Don't allow it! It would be like turning America into one big company town.

When one company controls everything consumers are helpless. No choices, no alternatives.

Don't allow it!

Lisa Lindsay